From the Foreword to Africa and the SDGs (2019):

“I will conclude by expressing my sincere gratitude for Worldwide University Network’s initiative to bring in African voices and for this wide reaching collaboration. It is my sincere hope that the network will continue to undertake further policy research work on critical areas of SDGs to help inform on approaches that work best for the effective and successful implementation of the goals in Africa. I particularly encourage African academics, especially young postgraduate and early career academics to further contribute to the advancement and achievement of the SDGs by bringing in their African perspectives, thus ensuring practical policies that positively influence the day to day lives of all Africans.”

Bience Gawanas

UN Under-Secretary-General and Special Advisor on Africa to the UN Secretary-General; former African Union Commissioner for Social Affairs

Key factors in success

- Situating critical thinking and collaboration/governance principles at the centre of our ongoing work
- Strong leadership by African WUN member universities and active support from Steering Committee
- Direct engagement with key policy frameworks (AU Agenda 2063, UN SDGs) and relevant practitioners
- Promoting group visibility: regular activities, social media, circulation of comprehensive post-activity reports
- Seeking inclusion while demonstrating, to diverse stakeholders, the added value of an international university network
